I. INTRODUCTION

Since 1977 the Central America Church Growth Study Project (PROCADES), a ministry of the International Institute of In-Depth Evangelization (INDEPTH), has carried out a series of surveys on the Protestant Movement in each country of Central America. The purpose of these studies is to get a clearer picture of the "face" of the Church in each country and region, and to work with Christian leaders and their congregations in the task of fulfilling the Great Commission in our generation.

The results of the PROCADES surveys have provided us with valuable and reliable information, which has helped us to evaluate, in a responsible manner, the advance of the Protestant Churches in Central America, a growth picture that hopefully reflects the true growth of the Body of Christ in this region, although the two are not necessarily synonymous. Our major concern is for the integral growth of the Body of Christ in Central America, and to train Christian leaders for the mobilization of their churches in the hope that the resulting growth will truly be that of the Body of Christ. Our interest is not denominational aggrandizement, but the authentic and integral growth of the Church of the Lord Jesus Christ--Kingdom growth and not "church" growth.

One of the results of our studies in Central America has been the production of this volume: DIRECTORY OF CHURCHES, ORGANIZATIONS, AND MINISTRIES OF THE PROTESTANT MOVEMENT IN BELIZE. This is volume seven of our directory series; directories for other countries have already been completed in final form. Unfortunately, three of the directories have not yet been published, but photocopies are available from our office in San José, Costa Rica. In addition to the directories, we are also publishing a series of research-in-progress reports and a history of the expansion of Christianity in each country. A composite volume, World Christianity: Central America and the Caribbean (MARC/World Vision, 1982), was published earlier this year, edited by Clifton L. Holland, director of PROCADES. Now in preparation is a one-volume study in Spanish, Una Historia del Movimiento Protestante en Centroamérica (INDEF/PROCADES, scheduled for publication in November 1982).

Our research on Protestant Church Growth in Belize began in May 1978 with a visit by Miguel Suazo and Clifton Holland of PROCADES. At that time we became acquainted with Mr. Daniel Ness of the Eastern Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities, who was director of the Mennonite Centre in Belize City. Daniel had already begun a study of Mennonite groups in Belize, and the prospect of helping us do a complete study of the Protestant Movement in Belize was of great interest to him. Consequently, Daniel accepted an invitation to become our official interviewer for Belize. Interviews with denominational leaders and pastors of independent churches were conducted by Daniel from May to November of 1978, at which time Daniel returned to the United States to assume other responsibilities. Holland returned to Belize in early November to collect the data that Ness had compiled from the interviews, and together they determined how many interviews were still pending or incomplete.

In order to terminate the project in Belize, Mr. Otis Brady of the Southern Baptist Mission offered to help through the end of the year. However, it was not until May of 1979 that all of the interviews were finalized and we began to compile the present directory for Belize.

Unfortunately, at that time, PROCADES did not have the funds to publish the Belize Directory due to commitments in other countries, mainly in Guatemala, where similar projects were underway. By the end of 1979, most of the interviewing had been completed in Central America, with the exception of Guatemala, but we still did not have enough funds to publish all of the Directories. It was not until December 1981 that the Guatemala Directory was published, thus completing the directory projects in every country of Central America.

However, by then the information contained in the directories of El Salvador, Honduras and Belize was out of date and the surveys needed to be repeated and the directories updated. We are now in the process of doing just that, and the Directory of Belize is being made available in its draft form (May 1979) in order to aid in this process. Xerox copies of the directory are available from our offices in San José for US$3.50 (includes postage and handling). We ask for our reader's cooperation in carrying out this task by sending us any additions or corrections to the directory.

By way of summary, this Directory includes information on 179 Protestant churches and 96 missions, or a total of 275 Protestant congregations, with a total estimated membership of 16,775, which is approximately 13.3% of the total population of Belize as of May 1979 (estimated at 126,000). The projected size of the Protestant Community (or Protestant population) at that time was 49,338 or about 40% of the total population. The Directory lists the names and addresses of 53 Protestant groups (denominations or independent churches) in Belize, as well as information on the international headquarters of each group (if any was reported).

In conclusion, I would like to thank the following people for their valuable help in making the publication of this directory possible:

Mr. Daniel Ness, Eastern Mennonite Board of Missions and Charities
Mr. Otis Brady, Southern Baptist Mission
Mr. N. T. Dillinger, Conservative Baptist Home Mission Society
Mr. Gordon Lee, Gospel Missionary Union
Mr. Onésimo Pot, Church of the Nazarene
Mr. John Collier, Outreach for Belize Limited
Mr. Daniel Barrientos, Research Assistant, PROCADES
Miss Sandra Gómez, Secretary, PROCADES
Mr. Miguel Suazo, President of the PROCADES Committee, Guatemala

Our hope and prayer is that the Lord's work will continue to grow in quality and in quantity, in maturity and in number, as the people of God are faithful to the Risen Lord in His command to "Go and make disciples among all peoples." Our motivation for this church growth study has been that the Directory, the research-in-progress reports, and the written history of the Protestant Movement in Belize will provide new information for evaluation and planning, in order to motivate church leaders to train and mobilize their congregations in faithfulness to the Great Commission, for the integral growth of the Body of Christ in this corner of God's world.

Clifton L. Holland
Director of PROCADES

NOTE: This revised and corrected edition was prepared in March 1990 as part of the long-overdue process of updating the Directory. Please note that the data included here is from original edition that was produced in 1982 from interviews that were completed in May 1989. The current revisions in the text were made by Clifton L. Holland in order to correct the original draft version that contained several statistical errors; the notes on page 19 have also been rewritten for the sake of clarity. NOTES:

#1 Groups (denominations or independent churches) that DID NOT report their total membership statistics.

#2 Groups (denominations or independent churches) that reported their total membership statistics.

#3 The total combined membership of the 46 groups that reported membership statistics is 16,085. If we divide this number by the total number of churches (168) and missious (96) that reported membership statistics (or a total of 264 congregations), we find that the average congregational size was 60.9 members (or 60.928 before rounding off) for all groups (or denominations) in Belize.

#4 A total of 7 groups (denominations or independent churches) reported they had 11 churches and no missions, but they did not report their membership statistics. By multiplying these 11 churches times the average congregational size (11 x 60.9 members per congreg.), we can calculate that there were about 670 additional members who were previously unreported.

#5 The total number of congregations that were reported to exist in Belize is 275 (179 churches and 96 missions), but only 253 congregations could be located geographically by Districts and are listed in Part III, "Geographical Distribution of Protestant Congregations in Belize."

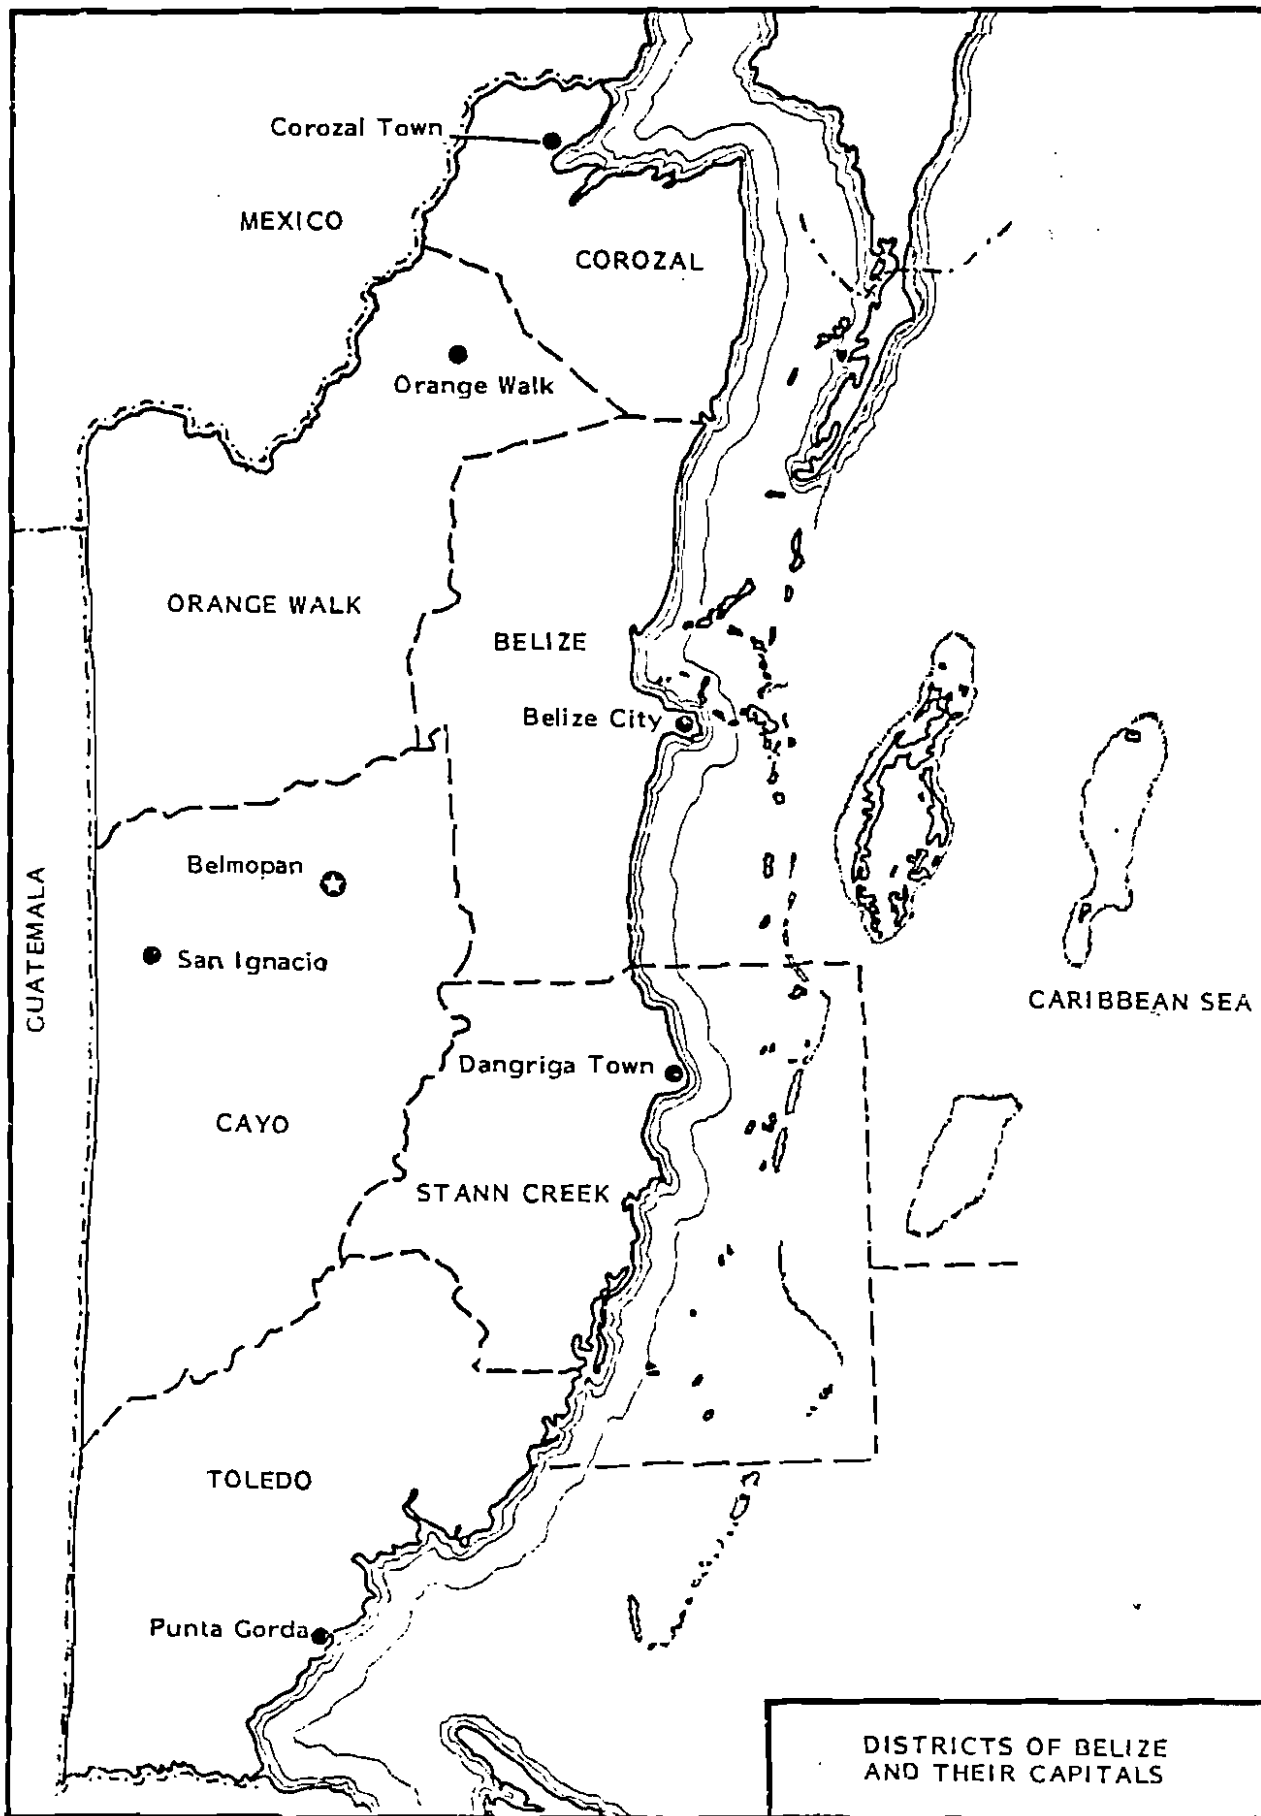

#6 The fact that many groups did not report their total number of "preaching points" means that the total listed here is only a minimum calculation.

#7 The columns "Number of Active Members" and "Number of Inactive Members" were not totaled because the majority of the groups made no distinction between those two categories in their official statistics.

#8 The total Protestant Membership for Belize was estimated to be 16,755 as of May 1979. The size of the Protestant Community (or population) was projected to be 49,338 or about 40% of the total population of Belize, estimated at 126,000. The size of the Protestant Community was calculated based on the formula: $M(\text{Membership}) \times 3 = PC(\text{Protestant Community})$. For purposes of PROCEEDS, the terms "Protestant Community" and "Protestant Population" are used synonymously and include all those who consider themselves to be "Protestant."
